Naval Reserve Commission Open To College Men

The opportunity to earn a Naval Reserve commission and an aviator's wings through the Navy's Aviation Cadet program, is now offered to college men facing a tour of military duty upon completion of their college work. A recent change in naval policy now permits students who will have the necessary educational requirements in June to apply at this time.

Men interested in flying for the Navy may procure application blanks and additional information from the U. S. Naval Air station, Oakland 14, California, the enlisting office for the Northern California area.

Eligibility requirements include: a minimum of 60 semester hours, the applicant must be unmarried and agree to remain so until completion of his training, must be between the ages of 18 and 27, must not have received induction orders, and must be able to pass physical and written aptitude examinations.

After completing approximately 18 months of flight training, Cadets become ensigns in the naval reserve or second lieutenants in the Marine reserve and are assigned to operating squadrons either on carriers or ashore. Certain of the aviators are assigned to multi-engine, shore-based aircraft. Commissioned aviators receive $355.75 monthly if single, or $430.75 if they have dependents.

Commissioned aviators are obligated to serve for a period of four years, including training time, during which time opportunities are given to many officers to transfer to the regular Navy for lifetime careers.

$1,000 Monthly Deficit Result of Wage Hike Granted Cafeteria Personnel Last Month

By Jerry Bowkett

As a result of the pay raise granted the 26 employees last month by the Associated Students, the college cafeteria is currently operating at a deficit of $1,000 monthly.

The pay increase came after an investigation by the Board of Directors revealed that wages and working conditions in the cafeteria were "way out of line" with those of other food-dispensing establishments in the area, according to Bob Katz, administrator of student affairs. In order to maintain a staff, the board moved to remedy the situation, even as deficit spending loomed.

Several proposals for offsetting the deficit have been considered by the board. The cafeteria is able, without increasing operating costs, to accommodate many more students than now take advantage of the service. If the volume of business were extended, the deficit might be wiped out. Business during the noon peak period in the cafeteria is, at present, curbed by inadequate seating space and the tendency of students to remain seated when they have finished eating. The board is currently soliciting student cooperation in relinquishing seating space as early as possible during the rush, thereby making room for others and assuring a larger turnover.

Alternatives suggested in the case of failure of the foregoing plan are drastic—subsidization by the Associated Students or a price increase. Students may want to subsidize the cafeteria to maintain the lounging privilege, Katz pointed out. It is the only area on campus where they can congregate.

Current cafeteria prices, Katz asserted, are very low by comparison with those of similar establishments in the area. Only public schools, grammar through high school, can serve meals at lower cost since they enjoy a federal subsidy and are permitted to purchase government surplus commodities, a privilege not extended to colleges and universities.

The recent wage increase granted cafeteria personnel was part of a general plan to improve working conditions in the cafeteria. In addition to the hourly wage hike, employees are now guaranteed a specific annual income. A vacation and sick leave policy has been adopted, and the working day, formerly eight hours, has been cut back to seven and one-half hours.

Frosh Counselor Position Still Open

Requirements Include 'Enthusiasm and Energy'

Positions are still open for counselors for the Freshman Orientation camp, September 7, 8, and 9, at Asilomar by the Sea. Prospective counselors should apply at Hut 4A by Friday, May 23.

According to Alan Henderson, frosh camp director, counselors are urgently needed. Positions open include those of athletic director, male assistant director, female assistant director, entertainment director, and counselors (10). Those accepted for these posts will be sent to the camp, all expenses paid.

The main requirements are, according to Henderson, "enthusiasm, school spirit, energy, the ability to make new students feel at home, a knowledge of the operation of the college, and a willingness to work." The camp will be run entirely by student leaders.

Transportation to the camp will be by bus, and no freshman or counselor will be allowed to bring an automobile. The only cars allowed will be those of the faculty sponsors, and they will be used for emergencies only.

The camp activities will include orientation, rallies, assemblies, dances, fireside chats, and date life.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS

Chloroform and Mickey Finn Method Urged Over Pledges' Physical Force

By Marilyn Leigh

The quiet serenity of the campus was shattered at 4 p.m. Monday afternoon with wild shouts of distress emitting from one Dick Boyd, president of Alpha Zeta Sigma. Why the shouts? Three young "thugs" (pledges to Alpha Zeta Sigma) were abducting our friend Dick, with the help of a volleyball net.

The sound of poor Dick's shouts was so distressing that a rather impressive crowd gathered around the struggling men. Indignation on the part of the crowd was rampant; and by 4:07 two policemen appeared on the scene to investigate. But, alas, by this time the men had been shooed off to conduct their fun elsewhere.

Dick didn't appear to be seriously injured, but his fingers and wrists were in rather bad shape as he had held on to a wire fence in an effort to keep from being taken away, also his wrists were tightly tied by cords from the net.

Although it is Alpha Zeta Sigma's policy to carry on this kind of activity during hell week, poor Dick certainly didn't like it. Then, too, Alpha Zeta Sigma's by-laws, section V, part c, states that any hazing which might result in physical injury is prohibited.

A possible alternative to Alpha Zeta Sigma's present methods might be the use of Mickey Finns or well administered chloroform, since neither of these methods would result in any kind of force or violence. One would merely see an unconscious man being carried away by a few pledges. Wouldn't this be nicer?

OFFICIAL COLLEGE NOTICE

This notice is of great importance to Veteran teachers and to those receiving their teaching credentials this Spring, 1952.

The Veteran teacher must attend summer school five or more weeks during consecutive years.

The course pursued must be one leading to a degree.

A prospective veteran teacher who completes his academic requirements in the spring term must also enroll in the summer session to establish the practice of summer school attendance, if he plans to enter the teaching profession in the September school term.

Each veteran teacher will be required to submit a supporting statement from a responsible official of the institution where he was employed as a teacher, stating that the veteran was regularly employed as a teacher during the ordinary school year and showing the beginning and ending dates. This statement should be presented to the school at the time of re-enrollment for the summer session.

Any student who is finishing school this year and wishes to go on to a higher degree must fill out a request of Change of Course before the end of the spring semester.

Official college notices will be printed in this space regularly. All material which appears here comes to the Golden Gater directly from the Administration.

Have You Gotten Any Mail Lately?

The advent of the universal student body card brought about a tremendous increase in the number of members in the Associated Students. Every regular student who registered last February was required to pay $6.50 for his membership. Along with this membership were supposed to go certain privileges, among them the right to a post office box in College Hall.

The post office boxes were so correlated with membership in the Associated Students that each student's P. O. box number was to be the same number as that printed on his student body card. However, no boxes were provided for about a thousand students, all those who have student body cards numbered over 3,000. Most of these students do not know that their mail is being held in the student body office, Hut 4A.

P. O. boxes have been promised to all students. Those without have been reassured periodically that work is under way and that soon they would have a place to receive their college mail. But the boxes still range in number from one to 3,000, and apparently there is little hope for more of them this semester.

The post office box is a student's address on campus. Important notices and messages are sent, with the present knowledge that about one-fourth of the student body will not be reached.

The student body card is now universal, but the privileges afforded card holders are not. If this situation remains, the card will merely serve as a means to extract money from a large segment of the student body under false pretenses, and not as a way to provide the promised extra benefits to all students at San Francisco State.

Letters to the Editor

THE BOILER ROOM

IT COULD HAPPEN TO YOU

Dear Editor:

I submit the following account of the Earl May incident with the hope that it will inspire students here at San Francisco State to want to help a fellow student when he has met with misfortune. What happened to Earl May could easily have happened to any one of us. The former combat veteran of the U. S. Air Force had just parked his car in front of his apartment after attending a movie, it was about 1 o'clock in the morning, and as he locked his car a fist struck him on the side of the head. The savage blow knocked him to the sidewalk unconscious with a fractured face, 13 different fractures to be exact. The thief grabbed Earl's wallet containing eight dollars, his high school ring, and his wrist watch.

Sometime later when Earl regained consciousness he staggered up to his apartment and called his physician. The doctor came over immediately and sent the victim to Franklin hospital. The operation was delayed until the medical staff was certain there was no possibility of concussion and then the delicate surgery was begun. It was made more difficult because Earl's eye had been pushed out of the socket by a pyramid fracture. After the long ordeal on the operation table Earl had to wait four days to be told whether or not his eye movement would be normal again. During this crucial period he required the services of special nurses 24 hours a day.

It was during this time the State student contacted Mr. York T. Mandra, instructor in the natural science department, to ask that his situation be explained to the school authorities so he would not lose the benefits of his G. I. Bill and, also, to prevent being dropped from class. The plight of the student immediately inspired Mr. Mandra to assist in every way possible. He contacted Dean John Bergstresser and Velva Murchison, a collection among the faculty was started to offset the hospital bill, and arrangements were made to transfer Earl to the Veterans' Administration hospital in Oakland.

The next part of the story should be of particular interest to you former G.I.'s, bungling and delays on the part of the Veterans Administration is old stuff to most of us, but apparently we can not even expect adequate medical care from the V.A. in case of an emergency.

Mr. Mandra transported Earl over to Oakland and the pair waited longer than an hour while the usual triplicate copies were filled out even though previous arrangements for Earl's entry had been made through the San Francisco V.A. office. Finally, the patient was admitted to the dental ward if you please. And here began a series of deplorable events. The first night Earl received no medical care except salt to wash out his mouth and a shot of penicilin by a registered nurse. Although on a bland diet, his dinner consisted of coarsely ground ham, spinach and bread.

At 8:30 next morning, after a difficult night, Earl was sent to the dental department for further examination and after much prying into the sensitive area he was sent for further x-rays, although the V.A. Hospital had all the x-rays from Franklin hospital in their possession. At 10 a.m. Earl was informed by the dentist he had had a most successful operation and he could not be kept as an in-patient just for treatment. Also, that he should keep his teeth cleaner; up to this time he had been unable to open his mouth. After the interview and examination Earl was formally discharged.

What starts dull minds to functioning one never knows, but as Earl sat in the lobby waiting for transportation, a social service worker attached to the V.A. staff ushered Earl into her office and was very apologetic over the "misunderstanding" and wanted Earl to sign-in again, this time as an eye patient. Earl did just what you and I would have done—he refused, being afraid for his physical welfare.

Shortly after he returned to San Francisco his sister-in-law arrived from Healdsburg and took him to his brother's home, where he convalesced for a period of several weeks.

There is more to this than just a story of an unfortunate incident. It is what happened to a fellow student. He is more than that, too, he is a symbol of what could happen to any one of us. Earl, as most of us, was operating on a financial shoe string to get through college, therefore, the hospital bills and other medical expenses are much more than he can handle alone. Some contributions have already been taken up, one by the faculty and various clubs, but these are falling short of the required quota. This is where you and I come in. If we all contribute just a little we will be able to help Earl meet this emergency. As for the veterans' hospital, Earl is depending upon the Veterans of Foreign Wars to help straighten out the affair, but it may be some time before any restoration can take place. Right now it is up to us.

Let's get started. No. 2216.

Civil Defense 'Alert America' Convoy Due Here May 26 on Nation-wide Tour

Billed as the "Show That May Save Your Life," the "Alert America" convoy, sponsored by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, will make its appearance here in San Francisco, commencing May 26.

The convoy, composed of 10 trucks and trailers, will set up camp in San Francisco from May 26 to 30; it will move to Oakland on June 3 for the second of its only two showings in Northern California.

The civil defense display was created by the Valley Forge foundation, and is on its California "lap" of a nation-wide tour. The tour is aimed at the major cities in America, designated as potential "target areas" in the event of enemy air-attack on this country.

Purpose of the "Alert America" Show, constructed by the designers of the recent "Freedom Train," is to act as a kind of "Paul Revere on Wheels" to alert Americans to the need for an active civil defense, and to help stimulate the enlistment of volunteers for the various services the United States must depend upon in the event of war on home grounds.

In San Francisco, "Alert America" will be installed at the National Guard Armory, Mission and 14th streets.

The display is open to the public free of charge.

Simulated atomic bomb attacks on "City X" will be carried out with co-ordination of black-out, "ack-ack" fire, the "collapse" of "City X" under an atomic bomb blast, and the wailing of sirens. The exhibit is pin-pointed to the average citizen and how he or she can save their lives by the simple measures of preparedness laid down by federal, state, county and city civil defense organizations.

Room and Board Positions Open at Housing Service

The College Housing office recently called to the attention of students the fact that there are on file a number of situations in which students may work in a home in exchange for room and board with kitchen privileges.

In some cases, either men or women students are acceptable. At present, there is immediate need in the homes of two members of the faculty for assistance with household responsibilities in exchange for either room, board, and salary, or room with kitchen privileges.

Students interested should contact Mrs. E. Gianopoulos, college housing secretary, in the College Housing office, CH107.

WAA Folk and Modern Dance Clubs Offer Co-ed Recreation

Both of the dance activities sponsored by the WAA are open to men as well as women.

The folk and square dance group which meets on Tuesday nights, is open to all college students—beginning, intermediate, and advanced. The advanced dancers usually do some exhibition dancing, and the whole group culminates each semester's dancing with a party to which friends are invited.

The Modern Dance club, which meets Friday afternoons, is open to those who are interested and have some previous experience. This past semester members of this group have danced at the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Humanities Conference dinner, in Kampus Kapers, and in the final concert of the San Francisco Dance league series.

In the coming year, the Modern Dance club will host the annual college dance symposium, to which dancers will come from Chico State, College of the Pacific, Fresno State, Mills, San Jose State, Stanford, California, and the University of Nevada.

NEW SWIMMING CLASS

Next semester will usher in an entirely new course in the women's P. E. program. This course, P. E. 63.2-4, will be designed for girls who are intermediate or advanced swimmers. The ultimate aim of this course will be to prepare girls for intercollegiate competition. One unit of credit for three semesters may be earned.

The best way to drive a baby buggy is to tickle its feet.

WAA Announces Sports Policies

1. Any girl who plays in intercollegiate competition must have a 1.0 grade point average.

2. Any girl who conducts herself in an unsportsmanlike manner shall be taken out of the sport by the instructor—for the season.

►Because of the WAA "publicity week" now in progress, the Golden Gater is giving special emphasis to WAA activities in this issue.

3. To be eligible for intercollegiate competition, a girl must first participate in the intramural program in that sport.

4. A girl should take no more than the maximum number of physical education activity points.

"To All Students at State"

The Women's Athletic Association, one of the most active and unpublicized organizations on campus, offers intercollegiate, intramural, and recreational sports to all students at State.

To meet the needs of the students at State, the WAA sponsors a four-point program:

1. Intercollegiate activities are offered for those girls who wish competition on the more advanced levels. A calendar of events is scheduled with other bay area colleges and universities.

2. For more informal competition, intramural sports are planned. These are of a more recreational nature, and give the average girl a better chance to participate.

3. Coeducational activities provide an opportunity for women to compete with men in athletics. Activities are chosen which are suitable for co-ed groups, such as volleyball and badminton. This program is sponsored jointly with the men's intramural department and the Women's Athletic Association through the Wednesday night recreational program and the folk-dance and fencing classes.

4. A dance program provides recreation in folk, square, and modern dance for interested students.

Some of the sports offered to students are softball, swimming, basketball, tennis, golf, badminton, field hockey, volleyball, archery, folk-dance, and modern dance.

Installations Awards Banquet

The Annual Spring Installation Awards banquet, which will be held this year at Veneto's restaurant on May 24, gives awards to women who participate in the sports program.

The first award is a wing block, given for two semesters of WAA activity. The second is a Block S, which requires four semesters of activity. The highest award is a pin and guard. To obtain this, a student must have six semesters of participation.

WAA Tennis Team Ends Year With Loss to San Jose in Heat

By Frances Rust

Winding up WAA competition for the season, two singles players and two doubles teams represented State in a tennis field day at San Jose State, Saturday, May 17.

Under the blazing heat of the mid-morning sun, the Gators had to hustle to keep up with their cooler competitors.

Ruth Campbell of S. F. easily took Phyllis Roberts of San Jose, 6-2, 6-2, in the first singles competition. Josephine Dickerson of S. F. and Billie Haer of San Jose sweated it out in a two and a half hour marathon, which ended with Josephine the winner by a score of 5-7, 6-2, 6-2.

Joan Chambers and May Stadler, San Jose's best players, teamed up in doubles to take State's Charlesetta Hightower and Ann Dougherty. Frances Rust and Novell Guilfoyle of S. F. were defeated, 6-3, 6-4, in a grueling match of base-line play by Spartan players Nancy Tuck and Carol Nubyke.

Two Girl Golfers Win Over Men in Hole-in-one Golf

State women edged the men in the recent intramural hole-in-one golf contest, held for faculty and students. Lillian Rusconi was tournament winner by coming closest to the cup by a distance of 5' 3 3/4". Floyd Glenn was second by 6' 5 3/4", and Joan Lowry placed third by 8' 3½".

Bill Harkness, director of intramurals, Art Bridgman, assistant director of intramurals, and Dickie Shainwald, director of women's intramurals, congratulated the participants, and hoped that they would enter again in the fall contest.

In other divisions, faculty winners were George Gibson, first, by 18' ½", D. W. Castleberry, second, with 23' 1", and J. K. Hardy, third, by 24' 6".

Women winners were Lillian Rusconi, first by 5' 3/4", second Joan Lowry, 8' 3½", third, Betty Doyle, by 31' 6", and fourth, Gail Wenat, by 34' 8".

Men winners were: First, Floyd Glenn, 6' 5 3/4"; second, Al Piparo, 11' 6"; third, Howie Schinnerer, 11' 8½"; fourth, D. Sullivan, 12' 7"; fifth, Bob Couture, 17' 8"; sixth, Don Brawner, 20' 3"; and seventh, Bob Mackey, 22' 4½".

Five State Women Tour Telephone Co.

Business Office Visited; Service Rep. Explains Job

By Sylvia Smith

Have you ever noticed the advertising on the local busses or streetcars, which picture two or three glamorous girls stating that they work for the Bell Telephone Company, and the various reasons why they work there? Some say that they simply couldn't support their husbands and several children without working there, and others rave about the wonderful advancement opportunities and social contacts which can be had by working for the company. Five girls from San Francisco State decided to investigate, and were conducted on a personal tour of the business division by Miss Peggy Gorman, personal interviewer of the company.

Virginia White, Joy Sarver, Marge Tobin, Pat Baat, and Kathy Peterson made the tour and lunched in the company cafeteria, courtesy of Bell Telephone Co.

INTERESTING JOB

In the business office, the girls were taken individually to talk with the service representative as they worked. The girl you talk with when you call or visit the Telephone Company office is a service representative. Her job is to discuss new service, and changes in service, billing and payment arrangements, directory listings, and the many other matters of importance to her customers and the company. The job sounds unexciting to the majority of people, but one girl's statement, "Every day goes by quickly because of the variety of calls that come in; it is like sitting on a street corner and watching all sorts of different people go-by," would show that it is not.

Miss Peggy Gorman of Bell Telephone will be on campus Friday, May 23, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Activities Room to interview students interested in learning more about job openings with the company. Students may sign up for appointments and fill in application sheets in CH114.

CO-ED'S PROBLEM

One of the calls which opportunely came in while the girls were present, was from a college girl, sharing an apartment and phone bill with her roommate, who was unable, because of financial difficulties, (sound familiar?) to pay her bill. After a few minutes of explanation, it was decided that she could pay a fraction of the bill at present, and the remainder later.

This whole project stemmed from the idea that Bell Telephone wanted the girls to get a first-hand view of the company and how it worked. Being shown through the business division, and talking to individuals working there, who seemed to be sincerely enjoying their jobs, served to promote a better understanding of the company on the part of the girls.

VARIED WORK

The entire value of the tour can be summed up in the words of a service representative in concluding her discussion of her job during a recent survey, by saying: "As a summary I would like to say that I am very happy in my work. My work is interesting, the people I work with and for are the very best, and our working conditions are very pleasant. There are very few companies where a woman can have a job where she is constantly with people that she would like to be with and where there is such a congenial atmosphere. Our work is varied to such an extent that it does not become tiresome. Every time you sit down at a desk you wonder just what is going to happen next and what unusual circumstances will arise. When a day is finished at the telephone company you leave work with a satisfied feeling that you've done a good day's work and that it was finished well."

$6,000 in Prizes to Be Awarded in Ellery Queen Short Story Contest

College writers are being offered an unusual opportunity to see their first stories in print and win a prize of $500 in the eighth Ellery Queen's Mystery magazine short story contest, which has just been announced.

Prizes totaling at least $6,000 will be awarded in this annual contest, which is sponsored by the magazine in co-operation with the publishing firm of Little, Brown and Company of Boston. A cash award of $2,000 will be given as first prize for the best original detective or crime short story. In addition, Ellery Queen's Mystery magazine will award four second prizes of $500 each, and five third prizes of $300 each.

Stories submitted for the contest should not exceed 10,000 words. Awards will be made solely on the basis of merit, on quality of writing, and originality of plot. Amateurs and beginners will have an equal chance with professionals to win awards.

All entries must be received at the offices of Ellery Queen's Mystery magazine, 570 Lexington avenue, New York City, not later than October 20, 1952. Prizes will be awarded by December 31, 1952. Additional information on the contest may be obtained by writing to the magazine.

Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

When classmates "bum" a cigarette,
They always come to me,
Because they know I smoke the best-
That's L.S./M.F.T.

Mildred Brown

In home ec. class the teacher says
That seasoning adds zest,
But I don't need a course to know
That Lucky tastes the best!

Anatomy's my roughest lab,
But everything is ducky
When I can lay my scalpel down
And light a tasty Lucky!
